Grossmont			X				X	At Grossmont, any given course will have multiple SLOs. Each SLO for a given course must be assessed at least once within a six year cycle and some are assessed more often. Each department has developed a six year SLO plan that outlines the timing of the assessments and each semester the department may typically be assessing SLOs in one or more courses.
Cerro Coso				5				This is exactly what we do at Cerro Coso, though it's on a five year cycle not a six. (see Grossmont)
Santa Monica			x				x	At Santa Monica College, we have multiple SLO's for each course that must be assessed at least once within the six year
Chabot		x			x			Program Review cycle. However, similar to MiraCosta, we would like to move to a 3 year timeline for assessment and
Reedly				2 CTE/5				review of both course and program SLOs.
Santiago Canyon	x				x			At Santiago Canyon College, assessment activity occurs every semester. We have a requirement that each course carries out SLO assessment at least once during the academic year. The goal is for all outcomes to be assessed within SCC's three year program review cycle. Program outcomes are assessed similarly and analyses for both course and program outcomes are components of academic program review
Feather River				4	x			At Feather River College, we report on the assessment of course level SLOs at least once per each comprehensive program review cycle (every four years), but individual courses may be reported on as often as every semester if deemed necessary by program faculty. The assessment data come in every semester, but not necessarily for all programs in a given semester
Southwest College		x			x			At SWC, all course and program SLOs are measured and assessed at least once within a given academic program review cycle (3 yrs). The discipline faculty determine the schedule for assessment of SLOs for their courses/program. For example, they may stagger the measurement of SLOs over the 3 year period. At SWC, every instructional and non-instructional unit is involved in the SLO assessment process throughout the academic year. SLO data is collected every semester depending on the schedule for assessment of SLOs that is established by each discipline/unit

MiraCosta			x				x	At MiraCosta we are on the same 6 year cycle of assessing course and program SLOs. However we are planning on revisiting the cycle this year to reduce the time period of assessment from 6 to 3 years. There are some departments that do assess SLOs on an annual basis, but the campus norm is the 6 year cycle.
Fresno						x		Fresno City College has adopted a general plan for regular, ongoing, and systematic assessment of course level Student Learning Outcomes. All SLOs for all courses should be assessed at a minimum of once before each Instructional Program Review. Assessment activity should take place during each semester. Disciplined faculty in each department/area of the college determine the cycle based on the following options:
Allan Hancock			x				x	Our practice is also similar to Grossmont's
West Hills/Leemore				2			x	West Hills College Lemoore assesses all SLOs for all courses in the fall term of alternate years. Program level outcomes are evaluated in the years when course level outcomes are not assessed.
Canada			x				x	Katrina's clear and concise description of Grossmont's process resembles very closely my former and current college's process.
Santa Rosa			x					We are scheduled to do one sixth of our course, certs and majors every year in a six year cycle aligned with accreditation cycles. We are in year 4 and have assessed all courses at least one slo but are woefully behind on certs and majors so that's a big push this year
Crafton	x					x		Where I recently came from (Cerritos College), we assessed every course every year. At Crafton, it does not sound like we are at that level yet, but I intend to get us to assess and collecting assessment data every year.
Lassen	x						x	Lassen College collects course assessment every semester and program assessment annually. Data analysis is included in program reviews.
Oxnard				2			x	At Oxnard College, programs are assessed annually, and every course is assessed every four semesters to allow time in between assessments to evaluate the data and make modifications where necessary
Copper Mountain	x					x		Our institution assesses Course level SLOs every semester and Program level, PLOs, every year. Not every SLO is assessed in a given course but we assess the same SLO or SLOs for all sections of a given course
Foothill	x						x	At Foothill, we assess course and program level SLOS on an annual basis, and include the analysis in our annual program reviews.
Barstow						x		Barstow collects assessment data every semester.
Diablo Valley College			x			x		At a minimum, we assess every three years, however; many of our core courses may be assessed more often depending on the assessment results. If the assessment results demonstrate that a change is needed, the faculty will change how they are teaching a particular SLO and then sometimes retest the next semester to see if this intervention had the desired effect.
	5	3	6	5	9	2	7	We collect every semester, but different courses and SLOs are being assessed every semester....
